NO. 287—NINETY-THIRD YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1951 | TWENTY-SIX PAGES

Three Schools Planned

Greater Victoria school board will spend $2,043,000 on three new schools and additions and alterations to a fourth, in 1952-53, it was announced last night at a meeting of the board.

Plans are subject to final approval of the Department of Education which has included its half of the cost in estimates for the Greater Victoria district, according to Trustee Austin I. Curtis.

The school board meanwhile will ask for architectural working drawings for committee study. Later tenders will be called from information in the drawings.

Program calls for a new Central Junior High School, to be constructed at an estimated cost of $1,135,000; additions and alterations to Mount View High School at $184,000; a new school to be called Lansdowne Junior High, at $600,000, and a new school to be called Macdonald Park Primary School, at $124,000.

Mr. Curtis suggested the plans be drawn up as soon as possible partly as an economic measure.

He felt that the board might see methods of eliminating some of the costs if they had the plans to examine well in advance.

J. F. K. English, chief inspector of schools, drew to the attention of the board one example of why the school program had to be expanded.

He stated that in 1946 there were 6,900 students attending elementary schools and that this figure had increased by nearly 2,000.

Headquarters Identifies Mysterious Navy Doctor

Ismailia Truce Set Up

CAIRO, Nov. 19 (AP)—Britain and Egypt in the Suez Canal zone today declared a truce in Ismailia, scene of a week end battle in which 18 Britons and Egyptians were killed. Thirty persons were wounded.

The provincial government agreed to disarm its police and the British promised to remove its remaining military families as fast as possible from the bloody midway city on the canal.

Ismailia was the scene of the first outbreak of violence in mid-October when Egypt told the British they must get out of the canal zone. Now it is reduced from its normal 100,000 population to about 40,000 as a result of Egyptian families fleeing.

The truce was arranged at a canal station between Ismailia and Port Said "in the interests of public security," Lieut.-Gen. Sir George Erskine told reporters at Ismailia.

The Egyptian ministry of the interior in Cairo in a communique tonight said Ismailia was "perfectly calm" throughout the day. It did not mention the truce terms.

The latest casualty list compiled from official sources showed:

Britain—Five officers killed; three enlisted men and two civilians wounded.

Egypt—Seven policemen and six civilians killed; 25 civilians wounded.

—Gen. Erskine, the Suez zone military commander, said the truce resulted from an "amicable discussion" with Egyptian Governor Ibrahim Abdul Hadi Ghazali.

BULLETINS

Red Claim

LONDON, Nov. 20 (Tuesday) (INS)—Radio Peiping was quoted today as charging that the U.S. was using Communist prisoners of war as "guinea pigs" in atomic bomb tests.

The report was contained in a Reuters News Agency dispatch from Tokyo.

Epidemic Strikes

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP).—An epidemic of dysentery or gastric influenza has swept a far-north Eskimo settlement, leaving one dead, a health department official said tonight.

Destroyer's Surgeon Found to Be American

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy's mystery man, who called himself Dr. Joseph Cyr, is in fact Ferdinand Waldo Demara, Jr., 29, formerly of Lawrence, Mass., the navy announced tonight.

Demara will be discharged in "due course" from the navy for misconduct, namely fraudulent entry, the navy said in a 150-word statement.

He is at present in H.M.C.S. Naden Hospital, Esquimalt.

Canadian immigration authorities are investigating the circumstances of his entry into Canada to determine whether he is in the country illegally.

The navy, however, did not completely lift the veil of mystery which surrounds Demara. It did not say what connection he has with the names "Dr. Cecil Boyer Hamano" and "Dr. French."

He joined the R.C.N. in March, 1951, using the birth certificate and medical credentials of Dr. Joseph Cyr of Edmuston, N.B., now understood to be practicing in Grand Falls, N.B.

FAME SPREAD

His fame as a surgeon spread across Canada following a series of major surgery cases among South Korean troops brought aboard the R.C.N. destroyer Cayuga. It was then that a protest came from the authentic Dr. Cyr, who reported his certification documents had mysteriously disappeared.

Demara was brought back under naval escort, arriving in Victoria by air from the Korean war theatre last Tuesday. He was lodged at H.M.C.S. Naden's naval hospital, seeing no one but naval personnel.

"Although the entire background of Demara has not yet been ascertained, it is known that he served in the United States navy on medical duties," the navy said.

"All the medical authorities in the United Nations forces in the Far East with whom Demara came in contact have testified as to the extensiveness of his knowledge of medicine and surgery and nothing has occurred to indicate either to the R.C.N. authorities or to the authorities of other forces serving in Korea that he did not possess the competence of a full-qualified medical man."

In his capacity as surgeon-lieutenant aboard the Cayuga, he collapsed a lung, amputated limbs and removed a bullet from near a heart in operations on South Koreans.

The navy had an article all set to go in its magazine, Crowsnest, on the surgical exploits of the Cayuga surgeon. When doubt was cast on his authenticity the story was yanked out.

M.P. Stresses Need for Care

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP).—E. D. Fulton, Progressive Conservative member for the British Columbia constituency of Kamloops, today told the Commons that Canada may eventually be faced with bankruptcy unless plans now are made to finance social-security measures and long-term defense expenditures.

Canada's defense and social-security commitments now total $2,750,000,000 a year—nearly six times federal expenditures in an average pre-war year.

"If we do not start now to work out and to take positive steps to meet these expenditures involved in these undertakings, I believe that they may well bankrupt this country," he said.

"I am not talking blue ruin, and I hope that nobody will take it that I am doing so, or that I am advocating decreasing the present social-security commitments of this country.

"All that I am suggesting is that if we do not face the facts squarely and recognize that we are committed to these tremendous expenditures we may well wake up some day, when things are not quite so prosperous and easy as they are now, with a disastrous situation staring us in the face."

He suggested the problem could be met only by increasing the real wealth of the country—by developing natural resources.

Mr. Fulton was one of several speakers to participate in continued debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

At the House opening, Trade Minister Howe announced that the final average payment on the 1950-51 prairie wheat crop will be 28.65 cents a bushel.

James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said that it is not the policy of the government or the Bank of Canada to cause a rise or fall in the market prices of government bonds.

Father Recognizes "Dr. Cyr" Photograph

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 19 (AP)—The father of a young man who performed a series of "brilliant" operations on wounded South Koreans said today that as far as he knew the only experience his son had in medicine was as an orderly at Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston.

Ferdinand Demara, Sr., father of Ferdinand Demara, Jr., who Canadian authorities said posed as a Dr. Joseph Cyr while serving with the Royal Canadian Navy, said he recognized his son from newspaper photographs.

He said his son, a brilliant student, quit high school when he was 16 years old to attend a Trappist monastery in Cumberland, R.I. He left there after a year's study, the father said, and continued religious studies at two Massachusetts schools.

In 1941 he entered the United States Navy, the father said, but some time later left without leave. He was picked up by naval authorities at St. Martin's College at Lacey, Wash., where he was teaching philosophy.

Demara said that after his son was released by naval authorities he came home and entered a law school in Boston. While attending law school, the father said, the young man served as an orderly at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

He said that as a boy his son "was bright to the point of genius. Things came easily to him and he read constantly. There was nothing bad in him. He always wanted to help others especially those who were suffering. I have no doubt this attitude led him to the trouble he is in."

Fire Destroys Gillnetter

NANAIMO, Nov. 19.—A fisherman's life was saved tonight when a gillnetter caught fire and was completely destroyed off Entrance Island in Nanaimo Harbor about 9 o'clock. The boat, partly owned by Canadian Fishing Co. Ltd., was valued at several thousand dollars.

Alone on the Porcher No. 5, Skipper Joe Mazza was on his way to the fishing grounds when the fire broke out, believed caused by an engine backfire.

Another fisherman, Mervin Forbister, ran alongside and took Mr. Mazza off before the flames engulfed the gillnetter.

High Level Manoeuvres Confuse Korean Outlook

TOKYO, Nov. 20 (Tuesday).—(AP)—High level political manoeuvres by the foreign ministers of North Korea and Communist China thoroughly confused the Korean armistice outlook today while truce negotiators were in recess.

Potentially the situation could result in a breakdown of the four-month-old talks at a time when agreement had seemed closer than ever before.

The impending Allied plan called for an armistice before Christmas.

In effect, the North Korean and Chinese foreign ministers, in dovetail statements, reverted to stands the Reds held prior to their first talks on July 10.

The Pyongyang broadcast listed these North Korean proposals to end the war:

1. Cessation of hostilities as the first step to achieve a peaceful settlement of the Korean question.

2. Acceptance of the "just and reasonable" proposals made by the North Korean and Chinese Red army to withdraw each of the opposing forces two kilometres (1.24) miles from the battle line and establish a buffer zone.

3. Withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea.

4. Severe punishment of those responsible for the atrocities against Koreans opposing the prolongation of the Korean war and against "peace-loving" Korean residents.

The first U.N. comment was made by Brig.-Gen. William Nuchols, U.N. command spokesman at Munsan, Korea.

He said if the North Korean peace proposal were made across the conference table at Pan Munjom "it would receive an immediate and unmistakable reply."

He did not elaborate on what the reply might be, but left no doubt he meant it would be flatly rejected.

Roused Reds Initiate New Blows

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 20 (Tuesday) (AP)—Communist forces, stung by Allied line-straightening successes in the Pukhan River area, seized the initiative last night and launched a series of medium attacks and probes all across Korea.

No major offensive was reported. But the Chinese and Red Koreans mounted six attacks and more than a dozen stiff probing actions.

Bitter hill battles flared across the peninsula.

Only one Red attack was successful. North Koreans won two hills along the east coast, south of Kosong.

On the western front, Communist troops hammered at Allied lines for three hours but a U.N. counter-attack finally drove them back.

West of Yonchon, Allied troops repulsed two communist probes of undetermined size early Tuesday morning.

Heated Issues Before Council

Several contentious issues give promise of a lively city council meeting at 8 p.m. today—the first of three "test" night meetings.

Chief among these will be a motion by Ald. Robert Macmillan for a referendum to reduce the size of the council to eight aldermen. A similar motion was defeated 8-2 at the last meeting.

Aldermen who favor night meetings hope to see a good turnout tonight.

Dairy's Brush With Law Nearly Triples Business

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Nov. 19 (CP)—The dairy business of farmer William E. Crawford has nearly tripled because of the publicity recently given him by the B.C. Milk Board.

Mr. Crawford was summonsed for selling milk which was "too good"—it had more butterfat than milk board standards allow.

Judge F. Sullivan in county court reversed a police court fine levied on the dairy. The judge said at the time that if he had been obliged to judge on the act which brought about the charge, he would have declared the milk board's powers ultra vires.

Before the publicity, Mr. Crawford's dairy had 200 customers. Today it has more than 500.

M.L.A. Building Arsenal For Buttle Lake Debate

A Victoria M.L.A. already is preparing ammunition for a legislative debate that's at least three months away.

Capt. D. J. Proudfoot said yesterday he is reading every word of the 1,200 pages of evidence presented at this summer's Buttle Lake dam hearings.

And, says Capt. Proudfoot, he will have 35 or 40 specific questions to fire at Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney in a promised Buttle Lake debate at the provincial legislature's spring session.

Capt. Proudfoot said he is "looking at the situation from the viewpoints of both the conservationists and the power commission."

Provincial Water Rights Comptroller E. H. Tredcroft recently approved a power commission application for permission to dam Buttle Lake, to provide extra water storage facilities for its huge John Hart power development.

When the decision was announced, Capt. Proudfoot wrote to Premier Byron Johnson and to Mr. Kenney, asking for a statement of Mr. Tredcroft's reasons for granting the application.

Capt. Proudfoot said yesterday he was given only a copy of Mr. Tredcroft's decision, without the reasons.

Second Unit Leaves Quebec

QUEBEC, Nov. 19 (CP).—The second of three infantry units trained by Canada for the defense of Western Europe headed overseas today from Quebec.

The battalion representing five Canadian rifle regiments sailed from Wolfe's Cove dock aboard the Columbia, 13,000-ton Greek Line ship.

It was the second infantry unit, formed for Canada's 27th Brigade, to set out from Quebec in eight days.

The brigade's third infantry unit—a Highland battalion including Victoria men—is expected to sail from Quebec at the start of December. The last of the brigade troops, including gunners of the 79th Field Regiment, may sail from Halifax later next month.

Hundreds of Small Boats, Rafts Move to Aid Flood-Isolated City

ROVIGO, Italy, Nov. 19 (CP).—A Dunkerque-like evacuation of 20,000 flood-marooned inhabitants of Adria began today with hundreds of boats and rafts converging on the cut-off city.

During the day 2,000 persons were taken to safety, but thousands still remain imprisoned in their frail homes, clinging to roofs and trees, hungry and chilled by the dense fog.

Helicopters, feeling a perilous course over the 250-square-mile flooded area in Northern Italy, dropped food to the marooned in Adria and other spots along the Po valley.

Authorities report that it is impossible to estimate the toll of victims the Po river has taken since it started its rain-fed rampage more than a week ago.

Refugees continued to flee northwards from the flooded area. By train, by road and by foot they went, pitifully clutching bundles containing all they could save from the river's fury.

Weather forecasts of more rain and fog added urgency to the rescue operations as the swirling Po, still erupting with frightful force through half a dozen breaks in its banks, continued to pour millions of tons of water into its fertile valley.

Towards the Adriatic, the Po finally made the much-feared link up with the Adige, Italy's biggest river.

The city of Cavarzere, on the banks of the Adige, was stormed by the joint flood. Most of its 20,000 inhabitants sought refuge on the north bank.

Calls Ban Stupid

Proudfoot Plans to Fight For Colored Margarine

Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, Victoria M.L.A., will fight on the floor of the provincial legislature at its February session for colored margarine.

He said yesterday that "if no one else brings in a bill to allow coloring of margarine, I will."

Capt. Proudfoot said he has recently had numerous phone calls and letters from constituents who want to see margarine that looks like butter.

At last year's session, Capt. Proudfoot voted against the government and in favor of an amendment to the Oleomargarine Act to allow coloring.

"The whole act is stupid," Capt. Proudfoot declared yesterday. "The farmers don't benefit by the coloring or non-coloring of margarine—they can't supply the butter we need anyway."

Another campaigner for colored margarine—Vancouver's Mrs. Tilly Rolston—may introduce the bill to allow coloring at the coming session, as she did last year. But if she doesn't, Capt. Proudfoot said he is prepared to bring in the bill himself.

Work Point Contract Let to G. H. Wheaton

Contract for a barracks block and mess at Work Point barracks has been awarded to the Victoria firm of G. H. Wheaton.

Announcement that the $633,371 Wheaton tender has been accepted was made yesterday by the department of defense production.

Demolition of the old barracks and the laying of foundations for one of the new buildings are already in progress.

When completed in an estimated nine months, the project will provide living quarters for 180 men and a kitchen and dining hall for 500.

The three-story block will be of steel and concrete construction.

Other building contracts awarded in B.C. in the latest list are to Marwell Construction Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, $815,233, for an R.C.E.M.E. workshop; Bentall and White Construction Co. Ltd., Vancouver, $293,132 for a standard medium drill hall; Baynes Manning Ltd., Vancouver, $155,305 for rifle ranges, and Timbersteel Structures Ltd., $118,281 for a tank hangar.

All Teachers May Attend Ballet Forum

The open forum on ballet for dance teachers at 10.30 a.m., Nov. 29, at 2024 Beach Avenue, Vancouver, is open to all dance teachers, whether members of the Canadian Dance Teachers' Association or not.

A previous report erroneously said that the forum conducted by Peggy van Pragh of the Sadler's Wells Ballet Company was open to association members only.

B.C. Electric To Raise Pay

An hourly pay increase of 8½ cents for 300 members of the Street Railwaymen's Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) in Victoria, and 2,300 members in Vancouver and New Westminster was announced yesterday.

The pay increase is effective March 1, 1952. The total increase for the second year of the agreement then will be 12½ cents hourly.

The advisory board of the union made representations to the company to the effect that increases in the cost of living were causing hardships for union members.

The agreement will continue to Feb. 28, 1953.

The wage increase was announced jointly by the B.C. Electric Co. and the union.

Federal Road Share Set at $37,500,000

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP).—The federal share of the British Columbia section of the Trans-Canada Highway is estimated at $37,500,000, the federal government disclosed tonight in a return tabled in the Senate.

The return said it is understood that the Pattullo Bridge across the Fraser River will be part of the route, but the amount of federal reimbursement to British Columbia government for the bridge has not been decided.

Office Opened By Milk Board

The Provincial Milk Board has opened an office in the Douglas Building, it was announced yesterday.

A. E. Webb, Vancouver Island milk inspector, is in charge. This is the first time an office has been available in Victoria.

Meanwhile, it was reported dairy feed has increased $4 a ton and oats $6 a ton.

Recent increases will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association at Duncan this week.

Victoria West Zoning Clarification Asked

Further clarification on points regarding zoning in Victoria West is required before any definite opinion is given by Victoria West Community Association.

This was reported last night by zoning committee chairman Charles Banfield. He presented a report, read by Jack Bennett, on association suggestions sent to the town planning commission.

He told the association annual meeting that a decision on the question of allowing light industry north of Johnson Street requires further information.

definition of limits was requested from the town planning commission on the question of allowing light industry to flank the railroad area.

The report asked further discussion between the zoning committee and the commission, regarding a defined residential area.

The committee was authorized to continue work and meet with the town planning commission.

The meeting also endorsed a suggestion that fill from the inner harbor be used to enlarge Banfield Park. The proposal to use the fill was explained by Alderman Percy Scurrah, who said he had checked with the city engineer on an unofficial basis.

Alderman W. F. Pinfold warned there was no city action yet regarding the disposal of the fill.

The meeting passed a resolution asking the city to place traffic signs at streets intersecting Catherine Street, particularly Skinner and Wilson Streets.

Alderman Scurrah told the meeting no city action would be taken in regard to permitting a lease of booming grounds above the trestle bridge in Selkirk Waters, without first consulting ratepayers concerned.

Nothing Can Hold Canada Says Princess on Return

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP).—The people of London—the humble and the mighty—gave Princess Elizabeth a traditional "welcome home" today.

... walks of streets cleared of traffic and cheered as the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh, back from a six-week tour of Canada, drove through the city.

The mighty sat down to a chicken and champagne luncheon at tables weighed down with gold plate at the Guildhall. They were the guests of the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Leslie Boyce.

Other guests at the banquet, a traditional British way of welcoming Royalty home after foreign visits, included Elizabeth's younger sister, Princess Margaret, in a costume of sparkling crimson, and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in formal black.

State trumpeters and city aldermen in scarlet robes trimmed with brown fur provided all the ancient color which has surrounded Guildhall celebrations for 1,000 years. But today something new was added.

Behind Princess Elizabeth's chair stood four Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They were her special bodyguards during the Canadian tour and now are the Princess' guests in Britain.

Princess Elizabeth declared the visit "was indeed a journey of great happiness, for we were received in Canada and in the United States with a warmth and kindliness that has moved us profoundly."

NEW FAITH

"I do not believe," she added, "one can return from Canada without a new sense of faith in the progress of mankind. For none of the doubts that face us on this troubled continent are going to hold back the Canadians."

Proposing the toast to the Royal couple, Mr. Churchill said, "there are no limits to the majestic future which lies before the mighty expanse of Canada with its virile, cultured and generous-hearted people."

He called Canada the "vital link in the English-speaking world which joins across the Atlantic Ocean the vast American democracy to the cities of our famous old island."

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip drove to the Guildhall in a state carriage with a prancing troop of Household Guards in plumes and gleaming breastplates.

The Princess said Canadians had given her and the Duke "a welcome, a generosity and a hospitality which we shall remember all our lives."

She found in Canada a nation "on its way to being one of the greatest in the world"—a deep and abiding loyalty to the Crown.

The Princess said that on her way to Washington for a three-day stay "we passed across what is surely one of the miracles of the world today, that vast 4,000-mile frontier without a single gun pointed in fear on either side."

New Explosion In Atom Tests 'Very Effective'

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 19 (AP).—A junior atomic explosion today set off a new series of tests in the development of nuclear warfare.

Sending up a flaming tower like a great skyrocket, it apparently was detonated at the ground surface. Subsequently an army statement said that preliminary "very effective results are indicated."

Troops participated, also technical experts and 250 military observers representing the armed forces.

The manner in which troops took part wasn't disclosed except that they were "involved in layout of field fortifications, materiel and equipment for test purposes."

Gen. Burdette M. Fitch, commanding the Desert Rock camp for troops involved, also said in a statement that "every operation of the nature represents important progress in the application of nuclear science to military science."

Encircled Canadians Fight Back to Lines

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Nov. 19 (CP).—Encircled in an outpost position 600 yards ahead of the main United Nations defenses, a platoon of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, held out until its ammunition was almost exhausted, then fought its way back.

During the action Nov. 2: Pte. Johnny Johnson of Windsor, Ont., restored to action three Bren machine-guns that had jammed during the action. He later manned one himself and knocked an enemy machine-gun out of action. Then, although wounded in both arms, he carried another wounded man back into the main defenses.

Pte. Ray Maclean of Verdun, Que., saw a Chinese about to bayonet a wounded Canadian. He stopped him by jumping on his back, and Pte Arthur Berry of St. Catharines, Ont., shot the Chinese.

During the assault on the way back, Maclean killed one Chinese by wresting the enemy soldier's own rifle from his grip, and killing him with it.

Cpl. Jack Sargent of Owen Sound, Ont., who with Lieut. Ed Mastronardi of Toronto sparked the platoon through its action, said:

"They just keep on coming. You kill 'em and more just walk over the guys you kill. I think they're all hopped up."

Sargent said opium poppy seeds were found in the pockets of some of the dead next morning.

Resignation Proper Move

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19 (CP).—Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran said today the Salmon Arm school trustees should have resigned if they found the amount fixed by an arbitration board last May 11 insufficient.

The jurist delivered written reasons supporting the British Columbia Court of Appeals mandatory order last week instructing the school board to readmit 510 municipal students.

The children were barred from Salmon Arm schools last September when the residents rejected a school funds by-law.

By resigning, the trustees would have invited the appointment of an official trustee by the province, which holds superior responsibility in the administration of the Public Schools Act, Mr. Justice O'Halloran said.

Eden Discounts Chance Of Quick End to Tension

LONDON, Nov. 19 (AP). — Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today the chasm between east and west blocs was so deep, wide and alarming that he did not believe any "sudden or spectacular move" would lessen the tension.

Rather, he proposed that east and west try to settle some of their little differences before tackling the big ones.

In a full foreign-policy statement Eden ranged all the chief trouble-spots of the world:

Korea—Britain insists that an agreement on armistice terms precede any cease-fire, that it must provide for prisoners and that there must be supervision to guarantee against a new attack.

Egypt—"We have no choice but to maintain our position in the (Suez) Canal Zone, basing our rights to do so on the treaty of 1936."

Iran—Britain is ready at any time to resume negotiations for a settlement. This must involve efficient operation of the industry, a fair sharing of the benefits between the Iranians and those developing the industry, and fair compensation for the seized properties.

Germany—The western powers' proposal that the U.N. create an international committee to determine whether free elections could be held in both East and West Germany is a "practical first step toward settling this crucial problem of the division of Germany."

Oddities

ORILLIA, Ont., Nov. 19 (CP).—One theory about skunks claims that as long as you hold them by the tail nothing will happen.

Last night Frank McHattie, Beaverton farmer, tried out the theory.

He killed one skunk raiding his chicken house and on the way to the barn with the body, stepped on a second skunk.

He snatched it up by the tail and held it while he called his wife.

The theory worked.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19 (CP).—Douglas Margison, 4, was snatched right out of his boots when he walked into the path of an approaching car.

The little boy walked out behind a parked car into the path of the oncoming car when his nine-year-old sister snatched him back, leaving his boots on the street.

YONKERS, N.Y., Nov. 18 (AP).—Yonkers police, still miffed over the voting down of a $500 annual pay increase, have given a congressman's secretary a parking ticket.

Mrs. Dorothy Cotter, secretary to Representative Ralph W. Gwinn (Rep. N.Y.) said her car was tagged in front of her home despite the congressman's emblem on the car.

One of the few Yonkers residents so far escaping the police tagging spree is Dr. Morris Woodrow.

Dr. Woodrow has put a notice on his windshield reading:

"I voted 'yes'."

Foiled!

Rabbits on some western farms are leading frustrated lives these days. The succulent bark of their favorite fruit trees has been wrapped in aluminum foil, so now they can't get at it.

This was a new one on us. We had heard of dozens of uses for the foil we roll at Kingston, Ont., but never for frustrating rabbits. However, it just goes to illustrate why more people are using more aluminum and why we, as the most efficient producer of this modern metal, must go on expanding. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. Let the People Speak

ALDERMEN have a chance to do tonight what the majority of taxpayers certainly thought would be done when the city manager system was installed at the City Hall—take steps to cut down the size of the aldermanic board. A motion will be introduced at tonight's council meeting calling for a referendum on the subject at the forthcoming civic elections.

The City Council has fiddled with this idea for more than a year now, after giving it at least partial support at the time the city managership was being envisaged. Later it evaded the issue by putting the decision up to the new city manager, thus asking him in effect to fire some of his bosses. The onus did not belong to him, should never have been placed on him, and so his views on retention of the present size of the board were not surprising.

The city council has fiddled with this, some hedging from former stands, and there is welcome evidence that some aldermen now see the light. If the council as a whole is in any further doubt on the subject it should take this chance and let the voters decide the issue. None of its members can suffer personally for at least a year, their seats being safe for that long before the change can be made.

What citizens do in Vancouver is not necessarily good for Victoria, but on this particular subject their example is pertinent. Over there that metropolitan city, vastly more complex in administration, gets along quite comfortably with eight aldermen and a mayor, compared to this city's ten aldermen and a chief magistrate. And Vancouver, be it noted, has no city manager to handle the multitude of details that since his arrival here has been laid at the door of the incumbent of this post.

If aldermen complain, as some still do, that a multiplicity of matters demand their attention, the answer is that in all probability they bother themselves with minutiae that should be left to permanent department heads. This has long been the trouble with the city council, but with the city manager system now in full swing there is no further excuse for such concern over what for an aldermanic board should be comparatively petty detail.

Milkless Sundays

IN REGINA, where milk is subject to government controls much the same as those operating in this province, the distributors have launched an experiment which will be watched with interest. Of their own volition the Regina distributors and their employees have decided to reduce home deliveries to a six-day schedule, dropping Sundays. The Saskatchewan milk board has not had any part in the negotiations, and has not signified approval or otherwise.

According to the Regina Leader-Post, this curtailment of service was the only practical way remaining to avoid further increases in prices charged to consumers to cover rising costs of production and handling. For reasons which have never been satisfactorily explained, nothing of the kind was attempted here when milk prices recently were increased by 3 cents a quart, to become the highest in Canada, despite the fact that so obvious an economy would have saved at least part of the increase granted to the industry from being passed on to the public. Perhaps it would be unfair to blame the distributors for lack of initiative in this regard, because they must have grown so accustomed to being told what to do and what not to do by the British Columbia milk board that they may believe it would be illegal to do anything without an official order.

Proposals that house deliveries should be reduced by one or more days a week have been before the B.C. board for months, and its continued refusal to sanction anything in that direction is incomprehensible in a board which claims to be interested in protecting consumers. When a commodity is sold at a fixed price the only measure of competition left among distributors is in services, and as the Ontario Royal commission on milk reported in 1947, that is the most extravagant and wasteful form of competition in existence.

Rewarding the Careful

SEATTLE, our friendly neighbor across the water, is starting on its second century with a practical, useful and entertaining idea in traffic improvement by public education and voluntary means. A police radio car with two officers patrols downtown Seattle for 15 minutes daily, broadcasting over a Seattle radio station an eye-witness account of how motorists and pedestrians are behaving. If a driver, followed for 12 blocks without his knowledge by the police vehicle, obeys all the traffic regulations, drives safely and with courtesy to wheeled and foot traffic alike he is given a commendation, a sticker for his car and a chance at a main prize worth $1,000. All of which is nice for the motorists commended, but that is the smallest part of it.

The actual description of driving habits played back to the community by an on-the-spot account is proving extremely educational. The police officers are trained traffic men, keen observers and thoroughly interested in what they are seeing and reporting. The result, over the air, is a fresh and lively broadcast with high entertainment appeal and undoubted value in correcting the conscious and unwitting mistakes of motorists. Also, the building up of interest in traffic courtesy is a cumulative affair; with commendation and a chance of reward for those who earn it. Of the many devices attempted to improve driving habits, Seattle's experiment is the more interesting in that it appeals to human pride. A 12-block exhibition of poor driving, with license number and details, would flatter no man.

PACIFIC LOGGING CONGRESS

Sir,—During the 42nd annual session of this organization recently assembled in Victoria, the members adopted a resolution instructing me, in behalf of the entire membership, to express to you our sincere appreciation for the hospitality and generosity which keynoted our visit to your beautiful city.

The courtesy and co-operation so warmly accorded us by the people of Victoria, townspeople, tradesmen and public officials alike was of material value in helping us to complete an enjoyable and worth while session.

The excellent coverage given us by your press is also greatly appreciated, and we trust will do much towards a better understanding of the mutual problems faced by the timber using industries of our two great nations.

"HUNTING RIGHTS"

Sir,—It seems somewhat strange that your correspondent's letter on the damage done by so-called hunters should come under the heading "Hunting Rights." If country people followed the example of hunters, they would, when they went to town, invade any garden they took a fancy to, root up any plants they would like to take away, shoot the family pets, and smash down the gate when they leave.

The "rights" of hunters when they come out into the country appear to allow such things. They either shoot at, or run farm animals all over the place with their dogs, which ruins the milk supply, but of course it is more important that a lot of ammunition should be shot off, than the cows should be milked.

At a recent gathering of farmers and ranchers in the neighborhood of Metchosin it was suggested that the Victoria School Board be asked to see that instructions be given in its schools which would enable pupils to know the difference between farm stock and deer. It was also suggested that the provincial government be asked to place a ban on all Sunday hunting, and all hunting within five or ten miles of a settled area. At the present time the only safe place for stock is in the stable. Are the hunters or the milk more important?

THOMAS SMITH.

POISON OATS?

Sir,—I see by a news item in The Colonist that the H. R. MacMillan Company is trying a new seeding process and to insure its success the entire experimental area is being sown first with poisoned oats.

Previous experiments were a failure due to insects and rodents eating the fir seeds that were sown from the helicopter.

If these poisoned oats will kill a rodent what is going to happen to all other wildlife in this area that eats these poisoned oats, such as grouse, pheasant, blue jays, wrens, mallards, pintails and all other bird life or for that matter owls, hawks, bald-headed eagles, etc. that eat the dead rodents and birds who have the poisoned oats inside of them?

It is a criminal offense for a trapper or farmer to use poison to obtain pelts or protect his crops from the ravages of rodents and birds, yet a company can sow large forest areas with poison by helicopter. Because this is a cheaper method of seeding large forest areas it is not sufficent excuse for the poisoning of all the wildlife in the area . . .

SIDEWALK SEATS

Sir,—It is unfortunate that the well-intentioned placing of seats on Broughton and Douglas Streets by Woodward's Ltd. has led to a misunderstanding with the city. As I see it their location should be satisfactory as the sidewalks are quite wide where they were. I notice the seats were removed Thursday.

Surely it should be possible to enact a bylaw permitting the placing of seats of the right type when the permission of the city engineer has been obtained and the city is legally protected.

Out — Warmonger!

On the Record

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE sixth United Nations assembly opened in Paris with a peace offensive launched by President Truman, in which he made a proposition which he knew, in advance, the Russians would reject, and which was promptly answered by Andrei Vishinsky in the same spirit, with a set of proposals he knew his opponents would reject.

The San Francisco Examiner appropriately headlined Secretary Acheson's opening remarks: "Acheson Offers Peace in Blistering Speech." Thus are peace offers made today, with neither side meaning peace or war. I do not believe that the president meant his own proposals seriously.

I cannot imagine that the United States would ever seriously agree, with the world as it is, to have nationals of other states taking a perpetual census of our war preparations, our armed forces camps, our atomic energy and armaments plants, unless the nationals were our allies. I can no more envisage the American Congress or people welcoming a horde of Communist spies in such an endeavor than I can imagine the Soviets welcoming a similar horde of American census takers. It's just not serious.

* * *

The administration, deeply perturbed that the Russians have been running away from the peace offensive, felt it had to come up with a countermove. But neither side will convince any sensible person until the tone of voice changes. If our government wants even to make effective propaganda it should co-ordinate the speeches of its leaders. While President Truman and Secretary Acheson were calling, in Washington and Paris, for inventorying armaments with a view to their reduction, General Omar Bradley was calling in Chicago for an expansion of American airpower—this year.

One would think that the administration would command its generals to observe appropriately solemn silence while it was launching a proposal for the reduction of arms, to give its propaganda an air, at least, of sincerity.

The question is how long the so-called free peoples will endure this preposterous means of conducting anti-diplomacy by mutual abuse in the name of the "Last best hope of peace."

* * *

The lack of accurate descriptions is progressively paralyzing all thought. More and more the U.N. has become a forum in which not only do the great powers engage in mutual recriminations but the small states also barter for advantage over the great powers and of one another. In no sense is it a deliberate body aimed at obtaining a consensus based on reason or law. It is a committee of foreign offices, meeting in the atmosphere of a cockpit, in which no one is prepared to yield an iota of interest to any conceivably higher considerations.

Perhaps the U.N.'s greatest use is to provide opportunity for delegates to get together privately for what might be rational discussions. But it also affords opportunities for the bartering of votes between small states on issues in which one is interested and the other indifferent, and on the "You uphold me on this and I'll back you on that" basis, regardless of the world effect.

* * *

Th Soviet Union stays in though repeatedly voted down because the Soviets have never taken the U.N. seriously. They throw their votes for any decision bound to stir up trouble in an area outside their control, use the meetings to study tensions that can be exploited, and use the veto to block decisions unfavorable to themselves, or merely to register protest. Otherwise, the Soviets rely on themselves, commit themselves to nobody, and maintain at all times freedom of action—to advance where advancement entails a minimum of risk; to retreat, too, when that appears, for the time being, more prudent.

Reports From Ottawa

ONE of the most telling contributions to the Commons' debate on retail price maintenance was that of lanky, Lincolnesque, Stanley Knowles, the parson-M.P. from Winnipeg North Centre.

His thesis was that while suppression of minimum price fixing by manufacturers was a step in the right direction, it was far short of what the government could do if it had a mind to.

Progressive Conservative leader George Drew had called the government proposal a "dead mouse". Knowles, who rates as one of the ablest of the C.C.F. members, agreed it was a mouse, but not necessarily a dead one.

Then Knowles reached a long arm back six years to produce a tome which the government would rather forget, written by a man whom the government would rather forget. It was "Canada and International Cartels", authored by former Combines Commissioner McGregor—he whom the government practically forced out two years ago after he had clashed with Trade Minister Howe and Justice Minister Garson over whether the flour milling industry should be prosecuted for alleged breaches of the combines law.

* * *

Members of the cabinet listened uncomfortably as Knowles read excerpts: How cartels prevented the sale of long-life electric light bulbs in Canada; how they limited the life of flashlight batteries; how they delayed the development of fluorescent lighting and the marketing of low-priced radio sets, and how they fixed the prices of nickel, aluminum and other raw materials.

Knowles quoted McGregor as reporting that such results seemed to stem partly from "attempts by heavily capitalized industries to protect themselves against the risks to investment created by rapid technological changes".

"If the government really wants to put the axe at the foot of a tree that needs to be cut down," the C.C.F. member remarked, "let them act on the recommendations in that report. There is a report which sets out anti-social practices that put completely in the shade any of the evils that arise from resale price maintenance."

But as usual when the government hasn't an answer ready, Liberal front benchers sat silently when Knowles finished, and it was evident to all that they had no intention of following his advice to act on the hoary McGregor report.

PARLIAMENTARY Pleasantries: J. W. Murphy (P.C., Lambton West) after having been interrupted by George Cruickshank (Lib., Fraser Valley): "I have heard more intelligent sounds coming from a cradle, and they were not cries for a bottle, either." . . . Cruickshank later, in reply: "I resent any such attack as that from an individual who has not the intestinal fortitude to fight for his country, but who prefers to profiteer." . . . Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East): "To separate me from my ideas would simply make me a nonentity. As a matter of fact, I would be——". Another member: "A Liberal." . . . Innott (Lib., Springfield, Man.): "I have the greatest confidence in the people who used their good judgment in sending me down here, as a result of a misfortune of my late predecessor who succumbed to a heart attack." . . . Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre, Sask.): "I mentioned the cost of living a moment ago, and while I speak the cost of living has gone up." Prime Minister St. Laurent: "You should stop speaking."

Working Model

(From The Financial Post)

THE British Commonwealth of Nations is the only international association that has been really tested and found to work in the world today. That tribute comes from Lawrence Hunt, New York lawyer and a good friend of Canada and the Commonwealth, in a recent address before the Royal Empire Society in Montreal.

His opinion may sober the visionaries but they will find it difficult to dispute. As Mr. Hunt points out, other empires have come to a sudden end, but the one started by England 400 years ago, while it has changed continually, still endures in modern form.

Said Mr. Hunt:

"There have been international alliances which are now forgotten. There was the League of Nations, which failed. There is the United Nations, a very useful organization, but which, despite a written constitution and regulations and rules of procedure, has not fulfilled the aspirations of the free peoples of the world. There is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which we earnestly hope will succeed, but it has yet to be tried and tested. The Commonwealth has been tested and it works. It has saved the world twice in our lifetime."

In some important circles there has been a tendency recently to forget about this vague commonwealth of ours. The connection doesn't mean much to Canada, at least, in the matter of trade, and much less than the old empire, in such a vital concern as active defense. But it has helped understanding and peace throughout a very large portion of the world and it has grown and developed with the times. It may well prove the working model for the rest of the democratic world to follow.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A teen-ager was being taxed by her father because her report card got a low grade for "Comprehension." She dismissed it airily. "Must be that dumb teacher's mistake. We never even studied comprehension."

SUSPICIOUS

A gentleman of some 80 years was discussing his will with a successful young lawyer. He wanted all his worldly possessions, he said, to go to his wife, that is, as long as she remained a widow. In the event that she remarried, the property was to revert to his children. The lawyer, inquiring further, discovered that the wife in question was then 79 and gently suggested that the limiting clause was hardly necessary.

The old man shook his head. "No," he said decisively, "There ain't no telling what young fellers like you will do for money."

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

AN elderly cheery friend of mine who makes a modest living as a commercial traveler, has a theory about the weather that helps him along his way. He travels by motor car, loaded with his samples, and his territory is a region of small villages and a couple of towns. At this time of year, he needs some sort of philosophy about the weather.

"For example," he explains, "when it is a raging blizzard, with sleet, I say to myself—this is a lovely day. A lovely day not to be out on a northern lake in a small motor boat.

"It is, of course, a mere alternative of the old saying, on a wet day, that it is a fine day for ducks. But if you intrude yourself into the picture, instead of ducks, you have no idea how it helps. I employ the negative statement, as a rule. When I wake up and see one of those bitter cold morning, I say: what a perfect day not to be a pallbearer at the funeral of a lodge brother who belongs to one of those long-winded religions. And besides, owing me $20.

* * *

"Right away, the day doesn't look too bad. When I see a deep snowfall greeting me on arising, I submit: what a lovely day not to be a letter-carrier. And instantly I am happy at my good fortune in being a commercial traveler with a car owned by the company. They wouldn't want me to risk damaging the car, trying to drive on a day like this. So I go back to bed.

"Every day is a lovely day, if you approach it from this negative angle. I do not claim to have originated it, because it is very old. The ancient Greek and Latin authors used it. Horace employs it in his odes. 'Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch,' a book not much esteemed nowadays, used this philosophy with great effect on my generation when I was a boy. It is about as useful a method of self-deception and self-encouragement (the same thing) as can be employed."

Odd Checks

BANK checks are an old story, says the National Geographic Society. They were used by ancient Romans, and the even more ancient Assyrians were writing checks on mud tablets as far back as the 9th century B.C.

King Edward I wrote a check for £40 payable to a Florence merchant 670 years ago. Mediaeval Venice used the check system but both payer and payee were required to appear in person at the bank for the transfer of funds.

The oldest checks in the United States are now in the Chase National Bank collection. They were signed by a Dutch merchant and dated March and September 1661, the year New Amsterdam became New York.

Checks came into more general use in the United States in the latter part of the 19th century. Abraham Lincoln was one of the first to recognize their convenience in making small payments. His checks for charity were descriptive—such as one drawn to "man with one leg" or "Mr. Johns—the sick man," to aid identification.

* * *

While the United States cannot claim the oldest checks, the fattest checks are cashed in that country. One for $7,500,000,000 tops them all. It transferred government funds from one account to another to balance the United States Treasury's books at the end of the 1948 fiscal year.

A check in the small change class, by comparison, was one drawn for $1,000,000—a United Nations payment on a $65,000,000 loan from the United States.

Small checks are rare but legal in most places. In England the Mayor of Southampton once received a check for one penny for over-payment on a railway ticket. A business man out of change at a London tube station wrote a check for twopence—his fare home. The smallest check was received by the United States Collector of Revenue. It was for $0.00, from a taxpayer who managed to break even.

Checks properly worded can be written on anything. They have been drawn on a postage stamp, a cookie, an egg, on cigarette paper and even written with chalk on a block of wood. The most formidable was on sheet steel with the draft written in electric welding and the cancellation in machine gun bullet holes.

Banks employing intricate time-saving machines to sort, prove, list and endorse checks in one operation, frown on such exotic notions.

With the Classics

From "The Tempest"

Our revels now are ended. These our actors
As I foretold you, were all spirits and
Are melted into air, into thin air;
And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are of such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.

Jockey Denies Knowledge Of Help Given Punter

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19 (CP).—Turkish-born Vahan Tashdjian, owner of a Persian art store here, today accepted a ruling of the Income Tax Appeal Board that will cost him many thousands of dollars.

"I will not argue with the decision of my loving Canada," he said. "I shall never contradict the judgment of my country. It involves our integrity, our way of life."

A naturalized Canadian for 27 years, Tashdjian has been ordered to pay income tax on $52,924 which he claimed he won in three years of playing the horses.

The board ruled in Ottawa that Tashdjian had not provided corroboration for his story that his large bank deposits came from race-track winnings. Normally, horse racing and other wagers are not subject to income tax.

Tashdjian, a dealer in fine silver and antiques, claimed his success was due to his friendship with Eddie Arcaro, ace jockey in the United States.

But in New York today Arcaro denied the friendship and called the story "fantastic."

"Why, I never heard of the fellow," Arcaro was quoted as saying . . . "How could I meet him through mutual friends? The whole thing is fantastic."

The jockey said he would ask the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau for an investigation to "clear my name."

Tashdjian told the board Arcaro had given him information and the tips had enabled him to amass a small fortune.

He had made bank deposits of $19,582 in 1945, $15,877 in 1946 and $17,465 in 1947.

He had shown a taxable income of only $4,814 in 1946 and $920 in 1947.

The art dealer claimed he met Arcaro in Toronto in 1935, but the jockey said today he had never been in Toronto. Neither had he visited Vancouver, he said.

Clifford Evens Shines In Symphony Solo Role

By RAY BAINES

A very gifted young man who usually sits in the lead violin chair of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, last night did a wonderful job of doubling as soloist.

Playing the moving and difficult Second Violin Concerto of Wienlawski, Clifford Evens received, and deserved, the kind of reception usually reserved for high-priced visiting concert artists.

Mr. Evens plays with manly authority, yet he is capable of great interpretive feeling and deep understanding of the music. An unaffected stage manner and brilliant technique all add up to a thoroughly polished concert artist.

Mr. Evens received more than just adequate support from the orchestra in this work. Under the careful supervision of Conductor Hans Gruber, the musicians turned in a polished background which contributed largely to the success of the whole work.

Having given over perhaps a major portion of the rehearsal time to the violin work, the orchestra faded just slightly after the intermission.

The Haydn Symphony No. 100, the "Military," suffered a little from the odd technical fault, but over all was a very pleasing effort. Outstanding were the reeds and tympani, the latter under the capable, but seldom-mentioned artist, F. Morris.

The hundred-and-some-odd Haydn symphonies are not, frankly, among the favorites of this reporter.

But for those who [illegible] like the works of the prolific 19th century composer, the Victoria Symphony performance last night must have been very pleasing. At any rate, the not-too-full house let it be known that it was fully satisfied.

The first and last works on the program were shorter and widely different. The performances were quite good.

The Carl von Weber overture "Der Freischuetz" was handled with skill but marred occasionally by a lack of intonation among the strings.

The spirited and technically difficult Dvorak "Slavonic Dances" made up in lively color what they occasionally lacked in accuracy. The spirit was there in all its fast-paced gaiety.

Last night's concert was the third in the current season.

Even with the pressing schedule, financial worries and technical problems under which the Victoria Symphony operates, it's getting better every concert and one can't help appreciating the effort that goes into it.

School Board Considers Esquimalt Pre-Primary

Petition by the Esquimalt P.T.A. for establishment of a pre-primary class in the Lampson Street School was considered without enthusiasm by the Greater Victoria School Board meeting last night and passed on to the committee on estimates for consideration.

Austin L. Curtis commented that until all Grade 1 children were adequately accommodated, the question of pre-primary children was secondary.

Inspector J. F. K. English told the board he proposed sending a letter through the schools to all parents advising that protective drills are about to be inaugurated as part of the civil defense program.

He said that he had arranged to appoint an inter-school civil defense co-ordinator, and that the basic first aid class for all children would shortly be started.

Subject to the board's solicitor's approval, the one-room annex at Strawberry Vale school will be turned over to the District of Saanich for park purposes.

Thieves Take Cash, Check

Thieves who broke into the premises of Clark & Cordick, feed store, early yesterday morning, got away with $10 in cash and a check for $290.25 when they rifled the cash drawer in the office.

Shortly after J. V. Cordick reported the loss to the city police, Joe Bennett, 739 Kings, turned up with the check.

Bennet had found the check lying on the boulevard near his home where the thieves had evidently discarded it, when they discovered its lack of value to them.

No arrest has been made, but city detectives are still investigating.

More Pay Favored For Substitutes

Substitute school teachers may soon be granted an increase in pay, according to reports received from a meeting of the Greater Victoria school board last night.

But it is not likely they will receive the $10 a day they have asked for.

At present, substitutes get $5 a day.

The school board has recommended substitutes in elementary schools receive $7 a day and those in secondary schools $8.50 a day.

Recommendation to that effect will be referred to the committee on estimates.

Labor Inquiry Board Sorts Evidence

Summation of recommended changes to the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act is under way by the special legislative inquiry board following five months of hearings.

From the recommendations submitted by labor, management and individuals the committee will submit its report to the legislature next year.

It is not expected the report will be ready until the session, according to committee chairman Arthur Ash.

The committee concluded its work Saturday at Vancouver, he said, after covering the province.

It was reported the Canadian Congress of Labor unions have asked about 27 changes to the act, the Trades and Labor Congress about 16, and employers about 10.

Employers' major changes are mostly for strike curbs and changes in definitions.

RULES SOUGHT

Labor has asked a definite set of rules be set by the Labor Relations Board in making its decisions. Particular stress was laid on granting certifications.

The board will receive reports on the findings Nov. 27 at Vancouver when it meets with the legislative committee, Mr. Ash said.

Committee members, headed by Mr. Ash, include Alan McDonell, Arthur Turner, Battleman McIntyre and John McRae.

In attempting to reach conclusions for presentation to the legislature, the committee may encounter stumbling blocks through its political make-up.

All members of the committee except Mr. Turner are Coalition members. Mr. Turner is a C.C.F. representative and the acknowledged labor expert of the Opposition.

Differences of opinion between the committee members could result in a minority report.

But Mrs. Huke isn't recommending a daily brew as a recipe for longevity. She says she has no views on that subject, merely drinks beer because she likes it.

Sooke Seeks Right to Get Better Fire Equipment

Sooke residents have received notice of a petition which is soon to be circulated here.

The petition can be signed by taxpayers only. It will request that the provincial government create a local improvement district in Sooke for the purpose of purchasing new fire-fighting equipment and installing new hydrants and stand-pipes.

This would make possible, the leaflet states, purchase of a new fire truck, equipped with the pumps, extinguishers, tanks and hoses, and 10 hydrants and 10 stand-pipes spaced at 2,000-foot intervals, with the hydrants to be placed where the water main is large enough to operate them properly and stand-pipes to be placed on smaller mains.

Cost in increased taxes is estimated at 3.75 mills. This would decrease gradually as interest charges fall, and after 10 years would drop considerably.

At that time the truck would be paid for, and only the annual charge for hydrants and stand-pipes would remain.

Estimates are based on a cost of $8,500 for the fire truck and an annual charge of $645 for the hydrants and stand-pipes.

If the petition is successful the organization committee will submit it to the government along with the necessary data.

A public meeting will then be held for the election of a further committee to implement the program.

Chairman of the Sooke Fire Unit is A. Fred Brownsey, Douglas Forrester is secretary.

The unit was formed during the last war, and, as in other districts, has benefited by A.R.P. material.

At the moment, it has a smart volunteer crew, an inhalator, several hundred feet of hose and other equipment. The fire truck is not dependable.

The Sooke fire hall is located in Sooke centre next to the doctor's office and Sooke Post Office. Sirens are located at several points.

The West Coast Ambulance is housed in the fire hall.

Uncle Wiggily Story

By Howard Garis

DISAPPOINTED FOXES

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy was a very brave muskrat lady. She was going down in the cellar of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow with her broom.

"And I will sweep out whoever is making all that noise in the jam closet," said Nurse Jane to herself. "I am not afraid! If anything should happen, Uncle Wiggily will soon be back with Chief the police dog."

Mr. Longears had hurried away in his auto to get Chief as soon as the rabbit gentleman heard about the mystery in the jam closet. As you know, it was Clarence, the boy fox, who had hidden himself in the jam closet. He was going to sneak out in the night, open the kitchen door and let in his father and mother foxes. They hoped to catch Uncle Wiggily while the rabbit was asleep in his bed.

As you know, Nurse Jane, hearing Clarence knocking over boxes in the jam closet, had locked him in. But Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy did not know it was Clarence.

The boy fox was once more trying to get out of the closet, though it wasn't yet time for him to let his father and mother into Uncle Wiggily's bungalow.

Step by step, Nurse Jane went down the cellar stairs. Clarence was banging away among the boxes and yapping, "Let me out! Let me out! I'll tell my father and mother on you!"

"Tell it to Chief the police dog! He will soon be here!" said Nurse Jane as she reached the bottom step and started toward the jam closet. "Tell it to Chief!"

"Oh, my goodness me!" said Clarence to himself. "I fear there is going to be trouble! Daddy and mother will be so disappointed because they will not be able to catch Uncle Wiggily in bed."

While Nurse Jane was getting ready to sweep Clarence out of the cellar, Uncle Wiggily was hurrying in his auto to police headquarters. There he saw Sergeant Bill.

"Is Chief back yet?" ask the rabbit uncle.

"Here he comes now, Mr. Longears," barked Bill.

"There is something mysterious in my bungalow jam closet," said Mr. Longears. "Nurse Jane wants you to come and get it out."

Meanwhile, back at the bungalow, Nurse Jane opened the outside cellar door. Then, standing ready with her broom, she unlocked the door of the jam closet.

"Come out, whoever you are!" Nurse Jane squeaked. Out rushed Clarence. Nurse Jane flipped her broom and swept the boy fox out of Uncle Wiggily's cellar. He ran toward the bushes where his father and mother foxes were hiding and waiting.

"What happened, Clarence?" asked Mr. Fox.

"Nurse Jane swept me out!" yapped Clarence. "She swept me out!"

"Come on, let's run away before she sweeps us!" howled Mrs. Fox.

So three disappointed foxes ran away. And I will tell you more on Monday if the rooster will tie a whistle on the tail of the puppy dog so it will blow and give warning to the pussy cats when the puppy dog tries to chase after them.

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives fast relief.

As you know, Nurse Jane, hearing Clarence knocking over boxes in the jam closet, had locked him in. But Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy did not know it was Clarence.

The boy fox was once more trying to get out of the closet, though it wasn't yet time for him to let his father and mother into Uncle Wiggily's bungalow.

Step by step, Nurse Jane went down the cellar stairs. Clarence was banging away among the boxes and yapping, "Let me out! Let me out! I'll tell my father and mother on you!"

"Tell it to Chief the police dog! He will soon be here!" said Nurse Jane as she reached the bottom step and started toward the jam closet. "Tell it to Chief!"

"Oh, my goodness me!" said Clarence to himself. "I fear there is going to be trouble! Daddy and mother will be so disappointed because they will not be able to catch Uncle Wiggily in bed."

While Nurse Jane was getting ready to sweep Clarence out of the cellar, Uncle Wiggily was hurrying in his auto to police headquarters. There he saw Sergeant Bill.

"Is Chief back yet?" ask the rabbit uncle.

"Here he comes now, Mr. Longears," barked Bill.

"There is something mysterious in my bungalow jam closet," said Mr. Longears. "Nurse Jane wants you to come and get it out."

Meanwhile, back at the bungalow, Nurse Jane opened the outside cellar door. Then, standing ready with her broom, she unlocked the door of the jam closet.

"Come out, whoever you are!" Nurse Jane squeaked. Out rushed Clarence. Nurse Jane flipped her broom and swept the boy fox out of Uncle Wiggily's cellar. He ran toward the bushes where his father and mother foxes were hiding and waiting.

"What happened, Clarence?" asked Mr. Fox.

"Nurse Jane swept me out!" yapped Clarence. "She swept me out!"

"Come on, let's run away before she sweeps us!" howled Mrs. Fox.

So three disappointed foxes ran away. And I will tell you more on Monday if the rooster will tie a whistle on the tail of the puppy dog so it will blow and give warning to the pussy cats when the puppy dog tries to chase after them.

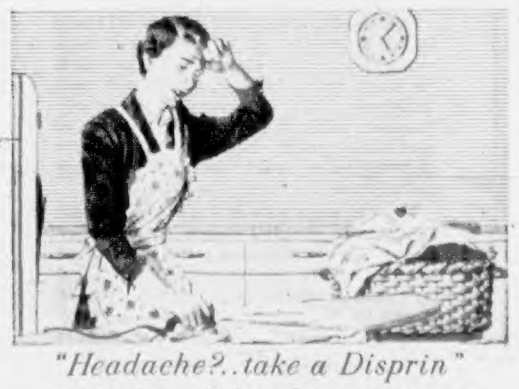
SORE MUSCLES? MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT



Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at druggists everywhere.

'DISPRIN' is available in Bottles of 24 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

"Headache?..take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives fast relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Car Top Surprise Landing Field

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 19 (AP).—Joe Wardle needed an emergency landing field today in a hurry. He found it—to his surprise—atop a moving automobile.

Wardle, 47, is a veteran of 25 years' flying. In recounting the incident, Wardle emphasized that he merely wanted a place to land. The engine on his light plane had iced up and conked out. So he glided to a nearby highway where, unknown to Wardle, there [illegible] of nearby Riverton.

Wardle felt the plane settle and waited for it to stop rolling.

But it kept scooting along the road at the same speed, nose high in the air.

Perry, at this instant, said he felt a shock, nothing bad. He glanced into the rear-view mirror. The belly of Wardle's plane peered back at him.

The plane had hooked its landing gear on the trunk of Perry's car.

Perry said he didn't know "whether I was crazy or what." [illegible] car and got out. Wardle and passenger Ray McCarty of Lark, Utah, did likewise.

They exchanged greetings, checked for injuries—none—and lifted the plane off the car.

Fraud and Corruption Bared As Judge Sentences Cagers

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (INS).—Fraud, forgery and corruption were bared by an enraged general sessions judge today as background for the college basketball exposé and for an "atomic athletic scandal" that may explode at any time.

Judge Saul Streit warned that "football players are bought and paid for" in the same way that brought about today's sentencing of fixer Salvatore Sollazzo and 14 players for their parts in the cage scandal.

Although he concentrated almost completely on the basketball situation, Judge Streit was moved to point up a parallel in football.

He referred specifically to more than a dozen big-time schools including Michigan, Ohio State, Texas, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland and Tennessee.

"Unless severe corrective measures are taken," the court added, "the situation may explode into an atomic athletic scandal."

Fixer Sent to Prison

Sollazzo—in the direct words of Judge Streit "a cool, calculating and cunning weasel"—drew from eight to 16 years in prison for bribing the players, all of whom co-operated with authorities after being caught. They thus drew considerably lesser sentences today.

One player, all-American Sherman White of Long Island University, drew a one-year term. Another ex-L.I.U. star, Eddie Gard, was sentenced to an indeterminate stay of up to three years in the city jail.

Three others got six months apiece. They were Ed Warner and Al Roth of C.C.N.Y. and Connie Schaff of N.Y.U., who collapsed on the courtroom floor when he heard the news. Roth's sentence was deferred because of his mother's illness, while five other C.C.N.Y. players and four other L.I.U. stars drew suspended sentences.

But in his disclosures of the metropolitan phase of the point-rigging, game-throwing mess, Judge Streit reserved his choicest descriptions for coaches, scouts and other college officials.

Dunces Get Scholarships

He cited instances of dull-witted players receiving scholarships, high school transcripts that apparently were altered, examinations that apparently were mis-marked, special tutoring and preparatory schooling paid for by the colleges, and a player drawing money not only for himself but for his mother.

He said the players' summer resort basketball, arranged by the colleges, amounted to professionalism with some players making up to $2,000 per summer as bus-boys. He blasted Madison Square Garden, site of almost all the fixed games, as a place where "gambling was rampant . . . point spreads were shouted from one end of the arena to the other."

He cited incredible chapter and verse in a 41-page statement in which he said most of the defendants had received bids from colleges as far south as Georgia and as far west as California, with offers of tuition, books, board, sinecures and expense money.

Some of the players, Judge Streit charged, were deficient not only in grades but in intelligence, and he added that one unidentified player had a criminal record.

Pays for Other Sports

Basketball profits at City College paid for all other sports, he said, and head coach Nat Holman had been advanced to the title of associate professor.

At Long Island University, Coach Clair Bee's salary has been raised from $3,000 to $12,000 in less than 10 years, and he had been advanced to a full professorship and vice-president of the university.

Of All-America Sherman White, Judge Streit said he had an IQ of 82 and stood 230th in his high school class of 283.

The judge went on:

"He was scouted by and attempted to enter Duquesne University but was not accepted because of scholastic deficiency. He was then recruited by and admitted to Villanova College.

"After six months at Villanova he received two D's, two C's and an F and withdrew. Following this and through the efforts of a Mr. Weinstein, a friend of Mr. Bee's and Long Island University's New Jersey scout, he was tried out at Long Island University and received a scholarship.

Miraculous Manner

"In some miraculous manner, despite the demands made by a severe basketball-playing schedule, daily practice and his illicit summer activities, White showed remarkable scholastic improvement.

"Among the courses he pursued in his senior year at L.I.U. were music seminar, oil painting, rhythm and dance, public speaking and physical education."

C.C.N.Y.'s Al Roth allegedly had an average of 70.43 at high school, but the court said:

"The high school transcript at C.C.N.Y. showed an average of 75.5. This discrepancy has never been explained."

Average Changed

To make it worse, according to Judge Streit, Roth was obliged to take an entrance examination, following which he was credited with a high school average of 89.4 which actually should have been 70.62. This would have disqualified him from admission to C.C.N.Y.

In this and at least one other case, Judge Streit said, "I suggest . . . there was deliberate fraud and probable forgery."

Connie Schaff, Judge Streit said, had eight failures in the 10 terms it took him to graduate from high school. At Brooklyn Prep, where he took four subjects he barely passed three and flunked the fourth. After that he received an N.Y.U. scholarship.

The court said Ed Roman of C.C.N.Y. "was offered and did accept" from Cincinnati University scholarships for himself and his brother, including tuition, board, a job, $30 per month expenses, and use of a car, but after two days decided to leave Cincinnati and was offered more money.

Leroy Smith of L.I.U. "was told by Bee of the advantage of playing at L.I.U." received a scholarship and was told that it "was not necessary to put in time at the job mentioned in the scholarship."

Ed Warner was offered free books, meals and a job, "although he was 2.3 years retarded." Warner's marks were too low for admittance as a regular student at C.C.N.Y. He was entered in special evening classes "and here too the defendant miraculously surpassed all expectations as a student."

Presidents Plan War On Evils

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP).—Seven college presidents agreed today that "something has to be done" to remove whatever evils there are in the United States intercollegiate athletic program.

The college presidents are members of a special committee set up by the American Council on Education—the first time in history such a high-ranking group ever was named to look into sports.

Ironically, their meeting began here almost at the moment that five former college basketball players were being sentenced to jail in New York on bribery charges.

CLOSED DOORS

The college presidents met behind closed doors with sports writers and athletic commissioners. Their views were given in press conferences.

The committee chairman, Dr. John A. Hannah of Michigan State College, said:

"We realize we must be responsible for the total operation of the university. We have a real concern in the protection of the integrity in higher education."

MUCH GOOD

As for sports, Hannah said:

"We start with the assumption that there is much good in college sports. We want to preserve what's good and take the evil out."

But he warned that it would probably be weeks—and might be months—before any verdict is reached.

Members of the committee, in addition to Dr. Hannah, are the Rev. Father John J. Cavanaugh, Notre Dame; A. Whitney Griswold, Yale; Raymond B. Allen, University of Washington; R. G. Gustavson, Nebraska; John S. Mills, Western Reserve; Humphrey Lee, Southern Methodist; John L. Plyler, Furman; Albert R. Olphi, Utah, and John D. Williams, Mississippi.

Poor Salesmanship Nets Seller $21,500

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (CP).—Elie Bray counts himself a lucky man today even if he is a poor salesman.

Bray held a sweepstake ticket on Solar which placed second in the November Handicap at Manchester Saturday. His prize is $21,500.

Bray said tonight he wouldn't have won the prize if he had been able to sell the two last tickets in two books of tickets he had been selling to friends.

Bray, 27, said he plans to use the money to build a home for his bride.

Norm Baker Unable to Play Here, Individuals May Cease to Function

Chances of an inter-city senior "A" basketball league appeared slimmer than ever after yesterday's developments. At least it seemed certain that Victoria Individuals won't be part of any league.

In fact, there was some doubt that Individuals would continue to operate as a club.

First of all came the announcement, expected by most basketball officials, that Norm Baker will not regain his amateur status until next April, one year after the coach of the Individuals played his last professional basketball.

Wilf Cain, president of the B.C.A.B.A., informed Victoria officials Sunday that Baker would no longer be permitted to play on a game-to-game basis in exhibition fixtures. Anyone playing against Baker could not be guaranteed that they would not lose their amateur status, it has been ruled by the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association.

The C.A.B.A. also stated that its decision on the one-year period before reinstatement could be considered was irrevocable.

Loss of Baker was a serious blow to Individuals, operating on a small budget and counting on the presence of the former Domino great to bring in fans.

ANOTHER PROBLEM

Manager Sid Watson also had another problem. He was in receipt of what amounted to an ultimatum yesterday from Ebbie Bowering, commissioner for the phantom inter-city league about scheduled games in Vancouver on Dec. 7 and 8 against Eilers and Clover Leafs, respectively.

Bowering stated that if Individuals didn't keep the dates, the B.C.A.B.A. will not accept any registrations of players with Individuals or allow any affiliated club to play against the Victoria team. Individuals had planned to play an exhibition game in Bellingham on Dec. 8 and Watson claimed that there was no commitment to play both Vancouver games.

After a meeting last night, Watson sent a reply to Bowering stating that Individuals would play Eilers, who played an exhibition game here a couple of weeks ago, on Dec. 8 and go through with the proposed home-and-home series with Alberni on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

But there still was the question of whether or not Individuals will continue to function as a team. There is talk of disbanding and a final decision will be made by the players at tonight's practice.

Soccer Circles Will Help Injured Norwegian Star

Victoria soccer is rallying to the aid of Einar Flaaten, Norwegian forward who was injured at Royal Athletic Park Saturday while playing for Victoria United in a Coast Soccer League match against Vancouver City.

Flaaten was rushed to hospital in the police ambulance after a collision with the opposing goalie. It was feared at first that he had a ruptured or broken kidney, but further examination resulted in a verdict of a bruised kidney, serious enough to keep him in hospital for some time yet and away from work for a period of several weeks. There is little likelihood that he will be able to play football again this season.

Less than two days after the injury, all Victoria soccer organizations had offered to do what they could to help, and many fans expressed a desire to contribute to a fund. One offered to start it with a $10 donation.

Charlie Lewis and Don Grey, president and secretary-treasurer of the Victoria and District Football Association, talked it over with United president, George Eade, Sunday, and stated their willingness to arrange a benefit match. Something definite will be announced after district team managers have talked it over.

FOUR-SIDED OFFER

From Jim Allan, secretary of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association, came an official offer to help in any way possible. Allan promised the complete co-operation of his organization and suggested a benefit match at Athletic Park on Sunday, Dec. 9.

Allan said his organization would (a) play a junior match preliminary to any game (b) play a junior and juvenile match as preliminary entertainment to the main match (c) play a complete junior and juvenile card (d) participate in a Greater Victoria benefit where all soccer leagues are jointly represented.

The Dec. 9 date suggested by Allan has been accepted by Eade. The program will be announced shortly.

United Booster Club met Sunday and announced through secretary John Paul that it would do everything possible to aid in a fund for Flaaten. In fact, the Boosters will start at once. Paul announced that all money received from additional sale of memberships in the club will go into a fund for Flaaten and that the club will receive and credit any donations fans might wish to make.

The Boosters will be operating in their usual stand at Athletic Park Saturday for the C.S.L. match between United and St. Andrews and expect to get the fund away to a good start.

Plenty of Action Expected Tonight as Cougars Host to Flyers

Next games, tonight: Edmonton at Victoria; Calgary at Saskatoon.

Memorial Arena should be crammed to capacity again tonight with Edmonton's speedy, well-balanced Flyers providing the opposition for Victoria Cougars in a scheduled P.C.H.L. game.

Cougars will be seeking to snap a four-game losing streak and they probably couldn't have had a tougher assignment. Although the Flyers are currently tied for fourth place with Victoria they lead the league on a percentage basis.

As a result of the rather peculiar schedule, Flyers have seen little action thus far this season. They are only eight points out of first place with eight games in hand over New Westminster Royals and they have six in hand over the Cougars. But in the 13 games they have played, coach Frank Currie's men have done right well. They lost their first two starts, have won eight, tied two and lost once in their last 11. Their percentage is .692 compared to .619 for the Royals.

NICE BALANCE

Farm team of Detroit Tigers, Flyers have a nice balance of youth and experience which has the speed which suits their big ice surface at Edmonton. Only holdover players are defenseman Bill Pettinger and winger Colin Kilburn.

Doug McCaig, who was a regular in the N.H.L. with Chicago last season, is club captain. Defenseman Pat Coburn and forward Jim Uniac are from Omaha, and forwards Pop Backor and John Raynak are also U.S.H.L. graduates. The fleet Nelson Podolsky was with Indianapolis last season and utilityman Hartney McLeod, out of action with an injury, is a third Omaha alumnus.

Eddie Joss, Eldor Thomas and Earl Johnson, playing together as a "kid" line, moved up intact from the junior Windsor Spitfires. Howie Cox, fourth defenseman, three-year veteran from Montreal Royals.

Flyers have met the Cougars twice, trimming them in a pre-season exhibition game and repeating the dose, 6-2, on Cougars' recent prairie trip.

Cougars, who will again have a go at it with 13 players, received further bad news yesterday with the report that defenseman Flori Goegan will be sidelined for five or six weeks. Goegan's injured knee will be operated on today and will be in a cast for a month. Centreman Reg Abbott will start working out this week, and may get back in action within a week.

Efforts are being made to get reinforcements but most professional clubs are down to their limit or also shorthanded.

Cougars dropped below .500 for the first time this season Sunday night at Seattle, where the high-scoring Ironmen grabbed an 8-5 decision.

Combines, Heaneys Win To Maintain Tie for Top

Victoria Combines and Heaneys scored victories Sunday to remain in a first-place tie in the junior division of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association.

Combines scored six unanswered goals in the second half to defeat the Cowichan Braves 8-1 at Duncan. Heaneys overcame a 1-0 half-time deficit to dump Victoria College Vikings 6-1.

Goal-getters for Combines were Mathews, with a pair, and Wynn, Smith, Barnes, Harrison, Bleadon and Evans. Percy picked up the Braves' only tally in the first half.

Heen and Dawe spearheaded Heaneys' attack with two goals each, and Evans and Rimmer picked up the other tallies. Allan Cliffe gave the Vikings their first-period goal.

Army, Navy and Air Force Vets moved into a first-place tie with Harris Cycles in the second division by edging the Cycles 2-1 Sunday.

LEAD BLOWN

Skillings gave the Cycles a one-goal lead early in the first half but Curran tied the count before the intermission and Boston added the winner in the second half.

Maycock Optical won a first division match from Tillicum Athletic Club by default.

Two goals by Gladstone and singles by Gale and Stewart led James Bay Merchants to a 4-2 third division victory over Trouhalem Altar Boys Saturday. Daniels and Underwood scored for the losers.

In a fourth division match Saturday Mic Mas blanked the Combine Pee Wees 3-0. The goals were scored by McLaren, Badington and Atherton.

Eagles edged St. Louis College 2-1 in a fifth division match Saturday. Barry and Lockland scored for the winners and Bayliss picked up the losers' single.

Dockyarders Reach Final Of Cup Play

Esquimalt advanced into the final of the McGavin Cup soccer competition by scoring an upset but deserved 2-0 victory over Legion before a large crowd at Lower Beacon Hill Sunday.

Dockyards, runners-up last year, will now meet the winner of Sunday's Duncan-Victoria City semi-final.

The game marked the first time this year that Legion, first-half winner in the Victoria and District Football Association, had been defeated.

What proved to be the winning goal was scored at the 12-minute mark of the first half after Esquimalt was awarded a free kick from just outside the penalty area. A Legion back deflected the shot but Esquimalt's Gordie Duncan booted the loose ball into the open corner.

Alex Stewart booted home the final marker at the 36-minute mark of the second half after a long pass had put two Esquimalt forwards in the clear.

Gorge Teams Tie for Lead In City Match

Bob Fleming and John Merriman of the Gorge Vale Golf Club and clubmates Fred Clunk and Vic Lowe finished all square in the city senior golf button match at the Gorge Vale course Sunday. Darkness prevented extra holes.

The replay is scheduled for the Uplands Golf Club a week from Sunday.

Both twosomes scored a best-ball of 70, two under par. Fleming and Merriman were one up at the turn and two up at the tenth. However they lost the 14th and 15th to birdies by Lowe. Remaining holes were halved.

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD

Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

The hip pivot, in addition to providing a source of rhythmic power, is important in turning the body out of the way of the arms as you swing your club head through and after the ball.

But the hip pivot must be made a smooth, co-ordinated part of your "all-together" downswing and not be over-emphasized in an effort to get more yardage. If you do this the pivot tends to swing the clubhead too far across the desired line of flight. This produces an outside-in swing that results in a slice. So, if you are slicing, see if you're over-pivoting the hips. The club must contact the ball from a slightly inside-out clubhead direction. The three club-shafts you see illustrate how the acceleration given the swing by the hand action and wrist-throw should be poured into the shot at the bottom of the swing. If you start this hand action too high in the backswing, its force will be spent before clubhead reaches ball and your stroke will be a sweep rather than a crisp, powerful smack.

Two Ex-W.I.L. Players Sent to Majors in Draft

The Western International League has sent two former players to the major leagues during the annual major league drafts at Cincinnati yesterday.

They are Big Floyd (Bill) Bevens who had a 20-12 record with Salem Senators last season and catcher Joe Rossi of Portland who played with Spokane during the 1950 season.

Bevens and Rossi will be teammates on the Cincinnati Reds, who also drafted catcher Henry Foiles who played the '51 season with Syracuse.

Seventeen minor league players were picked up by 11 big league teams.

Chicago Cubs selected Bill Hardin, a .260 hitting infielder from Rochester; Harvey Gentry, a .258 hitting outfielder from Ottawa, and righthander Tom Simpson of Buffalo whose 8-6 record included a seven-inning no-hitter.

GET FIRST PICK

St. Louis Browns, awarded the first pick because of their last-place American League finish, chose George Schmees, a Brooklyn-owned flychaser who played for Hollywood last year, and Earl Harrist, a veteran righthander, with a 16-16 record at Oakland.

Philadelphia Phillies, only other club to draft more than one player, chose Con Demsey, former Pittsburgh righthander, and Vernal (Nippy) Jones, veteran first baseman from Houston.

The Chicago White Sox came up with hard-hitting George Wilson, a .325 hitter with Birmingham.

Detroit Tigers picked up young Alex Garbowski, a good-field, no-hit, shortstop from Seattle, where he hit .222.

ADD SOUTHPAW

Washington added southpaw Glenn Elliott, of Sacramento, formerly with the Braves.

The Philadelphia Athletics liked Keith Thomas, a Syracuse outfielder who played at Kansas City last season. The Boston Red Sox took Joe Bevan, a Hollywood infielder who did his playing for New Orleans.

The world champion New York Yankees added some infield insurance, acquiring former major leaguer Gene Mauch, a .304 utility infielder from Milwaukee. And the Pittsburgh Pirates drafted Clement Koshorek who hit at a .261 clip at Little Rock last year.

New School Costs to Pass $120,000,000

British Columbia will have to spend $[illegible] to $120,000,000 on new schools in the next [illegible] years, Education Minister W. T. Straith said in a radio address last night.

"But," he said, "these figures should not be alarming, because our economy is [illegible] enough to adequate to take care of these expenses."

Mr. Straith said B.C.'s school population is increasing at a rate of [illegible] per cent a year. "Our school children need 400 new classrooms and 400 new teachers."

About 300 teachers drop out of the province's teaching staff [illegible] year, Mr. Straith said. Replacements for the 300 who leave, plus [illegible] the 400 teachers for the new [illegible] add up to [illegible] a year. And B.C.'s two normal schools are [illegible] out 750 teachers a year.

When the school expansion was over, Mr. Straith doesn't know. "If you can't see the end, population increase will level off. That I will be able to do when we will have sufficient school accommodation."

Another reason for school crowding he said is that students are staying in school longer "largely because of the high schools' new emphasis on technical and vocational courses."

"We have set up [illegible] in establishing [illegible] of education [illegible] in the province," he said.

"The secondary school of today is [illegible] a secondary school for the [illegible] of compulsory [illegible]. It is a school for many [illegible] and vigorous attempt to meet the need for [illegible] guidance and development which will result in happy and effective citizenship for all students."

Cayuga Back at Base After Active Patrol

By LIEUT. R. A. V. JENKINS, R.C.N. (R)

ON BOARD H.M.C.S. CAYUGA, Japan.—This destroyer returned to port recently from what was probably one of the busiest and most eventful short patrols yet carried out by a ship of the United Nations fleet.

The Cayuga, under Cmdr. J. [illegible] of Victoria, had these experiences during the patrol:

Bombarded Communist shore position, both by day and by night;

Was herself the target of uncomfortably accurate enemy fire;

Witnessed a dogfight between U.N. Sabres and Communist Migs;

Landed medical assistance for the crew of a U.N. bomber after the aircraft had crash-landed;

Saw several members of her crew have their baptism of fire in a sharp exchange between one of her motor cutters and a Red machine-gun post.

Acting independently, the Cayuga ranged up and down the west coast of Korea, from the battle line to the northernmost point of the war area.

In one of her bombardments of enemy gun positions, the destroyer drove a number of Red troops into the open and splashed shells among them as they took to their heels. It was not possible to estimate the number of casualties.

In a modest piece of understatement, a report from the ship said, "It is assumed the Cayuga's shellfire upset the enemy's morale."

Another time, with the navigating officer, Lieut. Peter Chance, hard at work, the Cayuga used radar to approach an island through a narrow channel at night. She illuminated her target with star shells and followed up with a bombardment that achieved excellent results.

Later, running again into shallow waters, she sent a motor cutter to have a closer look at possible Red installations ashore.

The second boat, under Lieut. Donald R. Saxon and with a party of eight men aboard, moved about six miles away from the ship. Lieut. Saxon spotted some enemy gun emplacements and had just sent back a report saying no sign of life was evident when a machine-gun opened up on his boat. The fire was promptly returned from a Bren gun manned by OS. John Phillips.

The Cayuga's next experience was the most exciting of the patrol. Moving to an area near Chinnampo, she nosed up a narrow channel and prepared to [illegible] sitions. However, she suddenly found herself the target of guns mounted and concealed since her previous visits.

Four ranging rounds had just been fired from the destroyer's guns when a flash was observed on shore, and shells splashed 200 yards from the ship.

The Cayuga quickly slipped her anchor and withdrew stern first at seven knots—a tricky operation.

Shells from the enemy guns straddled the destroyer but none hit, though it was estimated that about 10 rounds were fired at her. The Cayuga fired back 155 rounds and observers reported hits in the target area.

During the patrol, Cayuga received word that an American bomber had come down not far from where she was operating. The destroyer's part was limited to provision of medical treatment for two shock cases.

Ben Hogan Again Named Golfer of Year

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP).—For the third time in the four-year history of the P.G.A. poll, Ben Hogan has been named "golfer of the year." The award is made by vote of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Lloyd Mangrum, Skip Alexan- [illegible] Ferrier followed Hogan in that order but they were far back. Hogan, with 164 ballots, got approximately 85 per cent of the votes.

Hogan won in 1948 and 1950, missing in 1949, but probably because he was not able to play because of the accident which nearly took his life.

He appeared in five tournaments this year, winning the Masters, U.S. Open and the so-called world championship at Tam O'Shanter. He was forced to withdraw at Phoenix because of illness after leading the first round with a 65.

Courtenay, Navy Tie

Courtenay United and a team from H.M.C.S. Naden battled to a 5-5 draw in a return soccer match at Naden Sunday. Navy led 3-0 at one time and then had to come from behind a 5-3 count.

Medal Round Tied

Mrs. H. G. Mearns and Miss S. Fry tied for net honors in the final women's medal round of the season for golfers with handicaps of 15 and under played at the Gorge Vale Golf Club yesterday.

Both shot a net 80 and both received a turkey for their efforts. Runners-up were Mrs. V. S. Godfrey and Mrs. S. R. Weston with net 83's.

Miss S. Fry won the low gross honors with an 86.

Marylebone Gains Draw With Pakistan

LAHORE, Pakistan, Nov. 19 (Reuters).—England's Marylebone cricket tourists found their best batting form with a vengeance Sunday and scored 368 runs for one wicket to force a draw with Pakistan in the first unofficial test match between the two countries.

On a pitch which gave the bowlers little assistance, R. T. (Dick) Spooner, the M.C.C.'s Warwickshire left-winger, made the highest score of his career with 168 not out and Tom Graveney registered his third century of the tour with 109 not out.

They put on 259 in 245 minutes in an unbroken second wicket stand—the highest of the tour.

Skating Earlier On Wednesday

Joe Dukowski, manager of Memorial Arena, announced yesterday that Wednesday afternoon skating sessions will be an hour longer, starting tomorrow. The new time for Wednesday afternoons is from 2 to 5.30.

The change is on an experimental basis following representation from adult skaters unable to take advantage of evening skating. The usual afternoon sessions are from 3 to 5.30 to enable school pupils to get the full benefit.

The new time will allow adults an hour of skating before youngsters congregate after school is out.

Lightkeeper To Get Supplies By Parachute

WINNIPEG, Nov. 19 (CP)—A new supply of food is to be dropped by parachute Wednesday to a lighthouse keeper, marooned on an island in Lake Winnipeg since Nov. 2.

The light keeper, Willard Olson, 37, of Winnipeg Beach was stranded when an early freeze-up prevented supply vessels from making a final run up the lake to bring him out for the winter. A 100-pound bundle was dropped to him Nov. 3.

The R.C.A.F. said Wednesday's supply kit will include power-pack batteries for Olsen's radio, which has not been operating. With the radio, he will be able to keep in touch with the department of transport.

An R.C.A.F. plane flew over the lighthouse on George's Island Saturday and the crew reported smoke coming from the chimney of Olsen's house and Olsen appeared to be in good health.

There are still large bodies of open water around the island preventing a snowmobile rescue.

Culbertson on Bridge - - - -

(Copyright 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

This is not the first time the writer has had occasion to comment on the relative inefficiency of experts in the field of slam bidding. A hand in the recent contest held to determine which team should represent the United States in an international match against Italy, is one more proof that some experts are over-cautious in bidding slams.

This was the deal:

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 5
♥ Q J 3
♦ Q 6 5
♣ K Q 7 3 2

WEST
♠ 8 4
♥ 9 6 5
♦ A J 7 2
♣ J 9 6 4

EAST
♠ J 7 3
♥ 10 8 2
♦ K 10 9 4 3
♣ 10 8

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 9 6 2
♥ A K 7 4
♦ 8
♣ A 5

When the board was played first, the North-South pair went about bidding the slam in the following straightforward manner:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

In the other room the South player took a peculiarly conservative stand—as follow:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♠ (!)	Pass	Pass	Pass

In view of North's responses it seems clear that South was guilty of "passing the buck" when he merely invited the slam by bidding five spades. It is perfectly true that the slam might not have been odds-on, but surely, it was asking a lot of North to suggest that he make the decision! Quite aside from South's other impressive values, his singleton-diamond was a control which only South himself could know about.

Gunner Claims Beating by Police, Fined $15 for Obstruction

A Gordon Head Army camp soldier was fined $15 in city police court yesterday for obstructing a police officer at Yates and Douglas on Friday.

Found guilty of obstructing Const. John McEwen was Gnr. Donald R. Pillon.

During the trial Pillon accused Const. McEwen and Const. William Knowles of striking him and knocking him to the ground outside the police station after his arrest.

"They took me down the street and near the police station one of them hit me in the stomach and the other pasted me in the jaw," he said.

Police testified that Pillon was using abusive language to some people at the corner before his arrest.

Pillon admitted he had used obscene language to Const. McEwen. Magistrate H. C. Hall asked him to repeat the words in court.

Prosecutor James Proudfoot asked Pillon if what he said to the police officer would sum up his feelings toward police.

Pillon said it would.

He denied tearing Const. McEwen's overcoat and charged that the constable had torn it himself to build up a case against him.

He admitted he had been drinking but said he was not drunk. He said he had drunk a quart of whisky.

Both police officers said accused was not abused in any way at the police station or on the way there.

"I am satisfied you obstructed the police officer," Magistrate Hall said.

ASSAULT CASE

Robert Davis, 283 Michigan, charged with common assault, elected trial by higher court and was remanded to Monday for a preliminary hearing.

Douglas S. Turner pleaded guilty to breaking and entering [illegible] on Nov. 10 and was remanded to today for a probation officer's report.

A naval rating, G. S. Birks, arrested Sunday for dangerous driving, was fined $50 and prohibited from driving for six months.

Police said he was driving at 70 miles an hour in the downtown area.

Survey Proving Beneficial, Says Straith

The continuing efficiency survey of the provincial civil service is paying off, Provincial Secretary W. T. Straith said yesterday.

The survey already has saved the province $285,000 and the sum is likely to go even higher, he said.

The survey by Kellogg and Stevenson, management engineers, was begun following claims that the civil service is overstaffed.

Unnecessary positions are not being filled once they have been vacated. Many other employees in unnecessary jobs are being shifted to more essential jobs as they become vacant.

No large-scale layoffs are contemplated, Mr. Straith said.

Victoria's Petty Thieves Spend Active Week End

Victoria's petty thieves and back alley burglars were hard at it during the week-end.

Biggest haul was made at the Island U-Drive Saturday night, when a fast-working burglar made off with $75 from the till while the dispatcher was out of the office for four minutes.

Police said a jimmy was used to force the till open. Not all the money was taken.

The Oyster Grill on Broad Street was objective of burglars who entered by the rear door. Police said a hole was punched in the glass in the door and the locking-bolts removed. A quantity of cigarettes is missing.

D. B. McTavish, 918 Government, reported a break-in attempt at his office. A jimmy had been used on the outside door but no entry made.

Police said the intruders went through a connecting door to an empty office. There was nothing missing.

F. E. Annis, 4158 Carey Road, reported his car aerial stolen sometime Sunday while the car was parked on Fisgard Street.

Sailor Found Shot at Home Dies in Jubilee

A 20-year-old sailor from H.M.C.S. Naden, who was found on the bathroom floor of his home at 1124 Yates on Sunday with a bullet wound in the head, died at Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday morning.

Police said a .32 automatic pistol was found under Charles William Tidy when he was being placed on a stretcher. He was taken to hospital by the Victoria Ambulance Service and attended by Dr. E. M. Mitchell.

Naval officials are at a loss to explain the incident. They said the dead man is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rochelle Tidy.

He was born in Cranbrook and educated at Revelstoke. He joined the navy in 1948 and served aboard H.M.C.S. Ontario before joining the stores staff at Naden.

Residents Seek Sidewalks On Two Streets

City council has received petitions from 19 Cedar Hill Road residents and 23 Princess Avenue residents for road and sidewalk improvements.

The Princess home owners request that concrete sidewalks be built on both sides of the street from Spring to Chambers Street and the Cedar Hill Road ratepayers ask that the road be rebuilt from Gosworth to North Dairy Road.

J. A. MacDonald, Newsman, Dies

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19, (CP)—John A. (Jack) Macdonald, veteran newspaper man, died Sunday in hospital here. He was 74.

He started his newspaper career on the Winnipeg Free Press. For 25 years he was a member of the editorial staff of the Vancouver Sun, covering newspaper beats from sports to politics and crime.

APTLY NAMED

The St. John River in New Brunswick was so named because it was discovered by Champlain on the Saint's feast day, June 24, 1604.

Club Shown Atom Film

"If there was ever a time requiring sober and realistic thought, this is it."

This is the concluding statement in commentary accompanying the film "God of the Atom" shown to the Victoria Gyro Club at its luncheon meeting yesterday.

Produced by the Moody Bible Institute, the full length color production deals with development of the atomic bomb, and dreadful possibilities of the weapon. Its message called for international acceptance of Christian ideals.

The picture was presented to the service club by CPO. Leslie Robertson, R.C.N., attached to the photographic section at H.M.C.S. Naden.

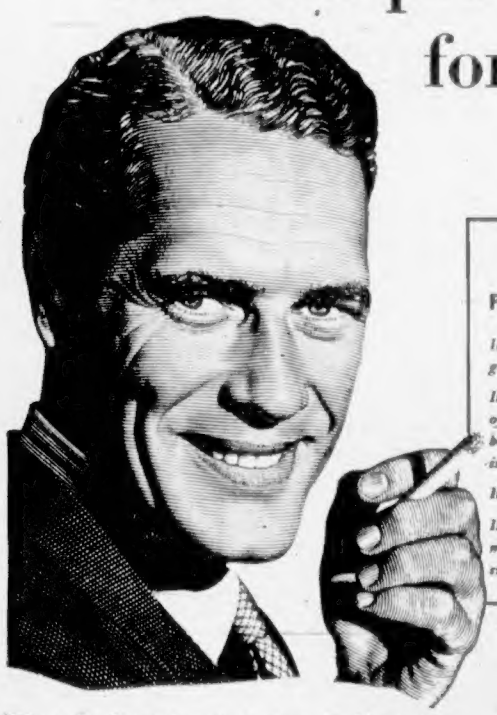
...THE FILTER TIP
– constant protection for your throat



WHAT THE FILTER TIP DOES
It stops particles of tobacco getting into the throat.
It is the common-sense method of preventing smoker's throat because it effectively retains irritants.
It guards physical fitness.
It brings out the flavour and makes the smoke delightfully sweet and cool.

When the flame is put to your du Maurier cigarette, the miracle of the filter-tip begins. For the choicest tobacco cannot be enjoyed until that tobacco is burned. And in that burning will not some harshness, some impurity, be born to mar the natural flavour? It will—but from a du Maurier it will not pass your lips. The du Maurier filter-tip is there on duty, custodian of perfect enjoyment, guardian of luxury.
